Sustainable robust communities by design

Brief by describing the experiences that local people want in and around their homes. Use images to show the types of places that might give those experiences to build a shared view of what you're trying to achieve and check what's being design meets those standards.

Gather the skills around you that can work with the site, brief and people to develop and test options and ensure what you build will support those experiences

Build in as much flexibility as you can.

Visualisations help everyone know what's going to happen, and what you're getting for your money. Just make sure the construction drawings match the 3Ds...
